Tags

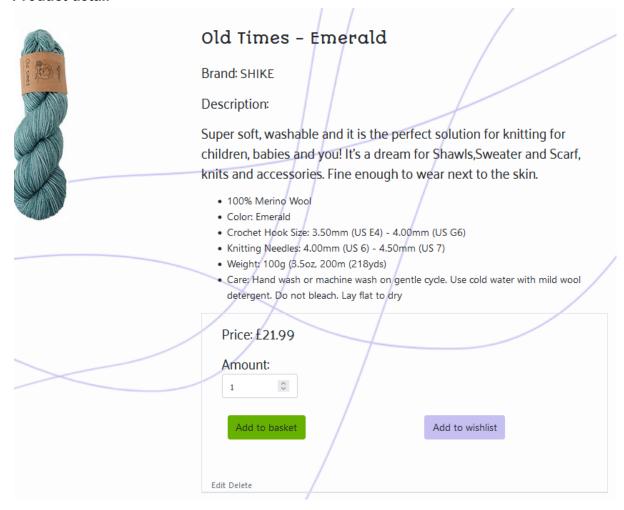

When browsing products, the customer can navigate through an assortment of tags if they want to narrow their search further without using the search bar. I chose tags to add some modernity to the website; hashtags are popular across social media, and it helps bring a vibe to the website that handicraft isn't just for certain generations but for everyone.

Products

The products page is very straight-forward, displaying the products as simple cards with an image that, in case of breaking, will be replaced by an 'No image found' image. They offer a brief description of the title, price, and category.

Product detail

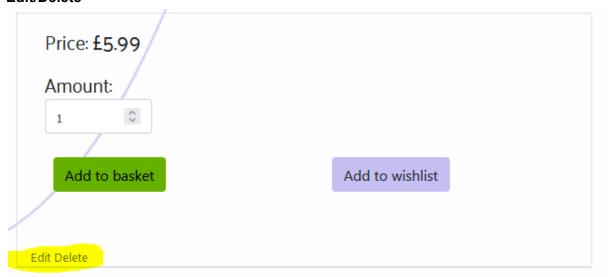

The product detail is structured to be easily viewed from top to bottom.

Here, the customer can see the brand and a description of the product as well as all information needed on how to use the material and how to care for it, as well as a few recommendations on what to create with it.

Below the description is the price, an input to either type in the amount or use the + and - buttons to increase or decrease the amount, and below that an 'add to basket' button and a 'add to wishlist' button available for authorized customers.

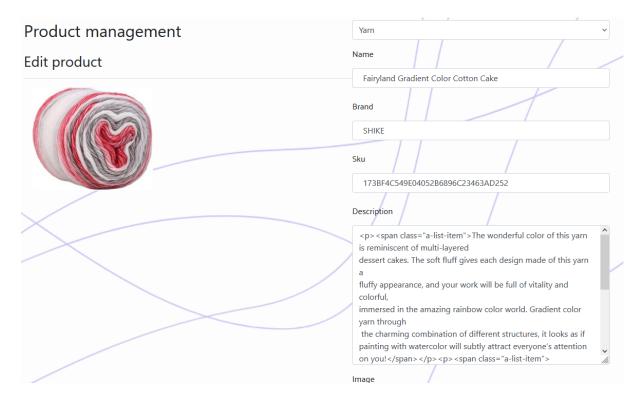

For the superuser, there are 2 additional buttons at the bottom where they can edit an existing product or delete it.

Edit/Delete

Beneath the Add to basket button, if signed in as superuser, there are 2 discreet buttons to edit or delete products directly on the website.

Edit product

When clicking the 'Edit' button on a product detail, the superuser can edit all the information about the product: Category, Name, Brand, SKU, Description, image, price, and tags.

Delete product

Are you sure you want to delete this product?
The decision is final.

Yes, delete it. Cancel

When clicking 'delete product', there's an option to proceed to delete it or cancel and go back to the products page.
